

PRESS RELEASE

Vaught-Frye Ripley Design, Inc. Gives Vision to Denkai Animal Sanctuary

03/11/09 – Vaught Frye Ripley Design, Inc., an award winning architectural and land planning firm, has long been an avid supporter of investing in the Colorado community. Three caring individuals with Vaught Frye Ripley Design, Inc. have generously stepped forward to contribute their time in developing a schematic design for Denkai Animal Sanctuary; lending a hand to an incredibly unique vision. Innes Henderson, LEED AP, RIBA, Russell E. Lee, ASLA, ULI, RLA, and Brent Cooper, [Russ Lee] Designer have met with Denkai's Founder, Floss Blackburn and members of the Board of Directors as part of this planning stage.

Denkai Animal Sanctuary promotes healthy environments in which people and animals interact and connect through applied, environmental, and educational programs to cultivate mental and physical health. Denkai recently purchased 640 acres near Grover, CO furthering the Sanctuary's mission. Denkai's vision and work is multi-pronged in bettering the lives of abandoned, abused and neglected animals and children nationwide and to create one of the first green² sanctuary facilities through the use of alternative energies and composting to name a few.

Further detailed press releases will follow pertaining to this vision and project in the very near future.

To lean more about Vaught Frye Ripley Design, Inc, visit: www.vfrdesigninc.com

To become part of the vision and learn more about the work of Denkai Animal Sanctuary, a 501(c)3 not for profit organization, visit: www.denkaisanctuary.org or call (970) 895-2337.